This is a new Tarot Spread. Originally developed, in part, by the many people who showed me this weave. It has been enhanced and developed into the Lovers Weave spread which you see here. The purpose of this spread is to see the influences present between two lovers and their future together.

Start by shuffling the cards using the “reset” method as outlined in the book: The Compass: Guide to the Quest Tarot. Here’s the short version of that description. You shuffle the cards in the normal way then take the top third of the deck, turn in 180 degrees and lay it on the table. Then take the next third and place it directly on top of the first third but without turning it at all. Lastly you take the remaining third and turn it 180 degrees and place it on top.

Cut the cards in half and shuffle. Then repeat the “third cuts and turn”. You do this until you have completed this cycle three times. This completely resets the cards to a neutral state and makes them ready for the seeker.

Give the cards to the seek and ask them to mix the cards anyway they wish. You want their energy into the cards. There is no wrong way for them to mix the cards. Tell them to follow their intuition and when they feel that the cards are mixed enough, to then stop and hand them back to you. With the cards in your left hand take the top card with your right and do not flip the card.

Layout the cards “face down”, starting with number one. Then place the number 2 card, on top and crossing the number one card as seen on the left. Then place the number three card to the right and on top of the end of the number two card. Then place the number four card over the end and on top of the number two card. You’re almost done.

Then weave in the number five card, refer to the diagram on the left. Then weave in the number six card on top and as seen on the left.

The weave cards go under the number one card but over the “left and right” cards shown in green. This weaves the card and holds them all in place.

You will do this for each of the Lovers in the question creating a six card spread for each of them. When you have both spreads created and face down you will then flip the right-hand spread over by grabbing the edge of the number four card and lifting the spread from left to right. Be a bit careful not to destroy the spread. It should hold together just fine.

Then flip the left-hand spread over by taking the edge of the number four card and flipping the spread from left to right. You will now have both spreads face up and they should appear like the illustration on the front of this page.

You are now ready to read the spread.

The meanings for the card positions for each person are as follows:

1. THE PERSON CARD POSITION: This card shows what the person is about. Everyone is different with each person and this card position shows how this person actually is with the other person in the love relationship. You will see what the person has inside of them as they approach this new love. If a male card shows up here for a woman you will know that this feminine gal has some strong male traits... and visa versa. Don’t get stuck here. Instead trust that the person you are reading will understand exactly what you are talking about even if they don’t show it. Most people hold close their real personality traits, especially when the one they love is sitting there with them.

2. THE HIDDEN DESIRES CARD POSITION: This card can show many things. It can show a person from the past that is still in the mind of the lover. It can show a desire for money, or freedom or a cruel streak in the personality. This card may reveal more about the person than they want revealed... so use tact. I find this card to be really fun to read. You may be surprised at the reaction of the lover you are reading when you start talking about his card. The Hidden Desires position often relates to the Past Relationships card. Look for the link between these two card.

3. THE PAST RELATIONSHIPS CARD POSITION: This card shows the overall influence of past relationships and what those past experiences have done to the lover. It will recognize the major traits that come up, not only for the lover in question but because of the other lover. The saying, “She brings out the worst in him.” May fit in this card position. Past relationships shape who we are and what we will come to expect from a lover. This card may show a total change in the way a person is moving forward in love.

4. THE FUTURE OUTCOME CARD POSITION: The easiest card to read in the spread. A peak at the future, if everything remains the same. The way everything is flowing at that moment. Change can still happen but only if the seeker pays attention to the recommendations shown in the reading. “Always in motion, the future.” If a minor arcana card appears here then know that the message is meant to be lighter. If a major arcana card appears here you will need to pay much more attention to its message. It may foretell a major theme that must be recognized now.

5. THE PAST LIFE INFLUENCES CARD POSITION: I love this card position addition in this spread. It brings to the reading a understand of what has gone on in past lives with each of the lovers. Many of us have had multiple past lives and this card shows those threads of energy that may be persisting in the present life. You may think of the past life information as a tattoo that colors the present but was created from an earlier time. This card can strongly effect the future, unless recognized and dealt with. If overly positive than you may discern that this couple has had a strong past life connection and passionately wanted to repeat the experience of their love.

6. THE LOVERS TOGETHER CARD POSITION: The strongest influence on the couples chance for a great life together. You will be able to see what will be the immediate direction for the couple. Remember to see the relationship between the cards as well as this final card. The number five card has the strongest influence on this final card. If the five card is extremely negative but the number six card is positive. It will mean that even in good times there will be an underlying current of trouble. If just the opposite it will mean that even in the worst of times, hope will be present and love will endure.

7. THE LUCKY QUESTION CARD POSITION: This is an optional addition you can add to the end of the reading. You’ll find that many people end this reading by asking about having children. You can accept any question at this point. Take the remaining cards in your hand, face down, concentrate on the final question pertaining to their relationship. Count out cards, face down, one card for each letter in the first name of each lover, turning the last card face-up and place in this position. This card may not answer the question directly. You’ll have to use your intuition here to see how it all fits together. Though sometimes you may be surprised. Make sure you let the lovers know that this is just a “little” addition to the end of your reading. For instance, if they ask, “How many kids will I have?” and the “Wheel of Fortune” comes up, this won’t answer with a number. But it will say that they need to take a more adventurous chance in creating kids and consider a more unconventional approach to them once they arrive. Use the message present to give them what your intuition tells you is the final close to their reading.

You should never feel that the result of a reading is fixed. You can always change the direction of your life through your direct efforts. In fact, the reading itself, because it shows the way the energies or influences surrounding you are going, can serve as a new starting point for positive change.

The very action of having a Tarot reading means that the situation can no longer exist in the way it was before. You have gained new knowledge and insight that did not exist before.

Still, you should never assume that you can alter your situation easily. A reading may show strong influences on your life path and going against those influences can demand a lot of conscious effort and hard work. If the reading should show an undesirable outcome, you should remember that you can change the outcome with the knowledge gained from the reading.

Having a Psychic Tarot Reading is like getting a detailed weather report. You know the weather can change at any moment but you sure may be glad that you brought your umbrella!

The positive power of your direct intent, the power inside you, your thoughts; these are greater than any outside force. There is no fate that binds you to any “pre-determined” outcome. This is because you are “self-determined”. Use the influences shown in your reading as guide posts, empowering yourself to create the future you wish to experience and avoiding any pitfalls along the way.

And remember to always act with love for all with harm to none.
